CITY COUNCIL MEETING OF: January 17, 2007

MAYOR GOODMAN was alarmed about the numbers reflected in the last slide, as it suggests a per capita income of about $470 a week, which would make it very difficult to purchase a home or rent an apartment. MR. ADAMS interjected that most economists focus on actual household income, to which MAYOR GOODMAN pointed out that even a household of $50,000 a year could not purchase a home.

MR. ADAMS agreed that it is a challenge. The United States is realizing a decline in real wages, because the global economy is creating a competition with the United States and really pulling the wages down. The more service-oriented economy has had an effect on per capita medium household income and wages as well. Hence, the City's economic development strategy should include a focus on the desired types of jobs. MAYOR GOODMAN added that, given these statistics, the City needs to focus on attracting higher-paying jobs. The emphasis on the academic medical complex, the Alzheimer's facility, etc., will provide that opportunity. He stressed that he wants the United States to continue to be a world-power, and the City should start discussions on what can be done on a local level to help rectify the situation.

DAVID RIGGLEMAN, Director of the Office of Communications, and JOSEPH MARCELLA, Director of Information Technologies, addressed the Key Performance Indicators for Strategic Plan Priority VI, to Provide an Open Government Which Allows Access, Participation and Respectful Communication, by showing a videotape presentation, of which a DVD was submitted for the minutes.

COUNCILMAN WOLFSON commented that Channel 2 has a big following, and he would like the Office of Communications to take advantage of that and explore further ways to enhance the City's image by involving the community. MR. MARCELLA remarked that he has received many telephone calls from people across the country who watch Channel 2 on the website.

COUNCILWOMAN TARKANIAN recognized the great job that staff has done.
